1. After a conference of the State Administrative Council in Peiping in late November 1949, JAO Shu-shih (饒漱石),* chairman of the East China Military and Political Commission and SU Yu (粟裕),* vice chairman of the Commission, returned to Shanghai on 11 December and called a conference of the Commission. About thirty members in Shanghai attended, including CHANG Yuan-chi (張元濟), LI Yu (黎玉),* and HSIEH Hsueh-chu (謝雪駒).
2. The conference decided to establish a secretariat, with WU K'ue-chien (吳克堅), one of the commission members, as secretary. This new organization was assigned the mission of adjusting the tax system of the East China District for 1950 and of hastening preparations for an attack on Taiwan. Work was to be started at once and the first general session of the secretariat was scheduled for January 1950.
